Fresh woe

By BARNEY SAMUELS

BBC bosses have launched a massive new probe to root out sexual misconduct at the Corporation.

Investigators are to double-check old complaints and rumours in case there are any 'hidden bombshells'.

A source said: "The fear is that there may be more complaints lying on file which could blow up in the BBC's face. As we are fighting for the licence fee, that would be a disaster."

Grim hunt for Hawaii fire dead

RECOVERY crews combing through charred homes and vehicles in Hawaii are likely to find 10 to 20 more victims per day, the governor has warned.

The death toll from the fire now stands at 99, making it the deadliest US wildfire in more than a century.

Governor Josh Green said it could take up to 10 days to learn the full death toll.

The number of missing now stands at around 1,300, he said.

He later told a press conference that 25% of the area affected by the fire had been searched.

Nearly the entire town of Lahaina was destroyed in the fire.

"There is nothing to see except devastation," Mr Green said.

Officials said 20 dogs trained to search for cadavers had been deployed to the scarred island by the Federal Emergency Management Agency.

Safety scare over toasters

A POPULAR home appliances company is urgently recalling some of its toasters amid fears they could catch fire.

A technical fault has been found in two specific models of Bosch's Styline Toaster, with the product codes TAT8611GB and TAT8613GB.

No injuries have been reported due to the appliances catching fire since the fault was identified.

Bosch said it is taking pre-emptive measures to ensure "the safety of its customers". Call 01536 436236 to find out if your toaster is affected.

TRUMP FACES NEW COURT RAP

Former president charged with election tampering

FORMER US President Donald Trump has been charged with attempting to overturn his 2020 election defeat in the state of Georgia.

It is the fourth criminal case brought against him in as many months.

Mr Trump, who is the leading Republican candidate for president in 2024, was indicted along with 18 other allies.

He denies all 13 charges against him, which include racketeering and election meddling.

He has said they are politically motivated to derail his campaign. Georgia prosecutor Fani Willis first launched an investigation in February 2021 into allegations of election meddling against Mr Trump and his associates.

In a 98-page indictment, prosecutors listed 41 charges against the 19 defendants.

Ms Willis announced she was giving defendants the opportunity to voluntarily surrender no later than noon on Friday 25 August. She said she plans to try all 19 accused together.

The list of alleged co-conspirators includes former Trump lawyer Rudy Giuliani, former White House chief of staff Mark Meadows and former White House lawyer John Eastman.

Others include a former justice department official, Jeffrey Clark, and Sidney Powell and Jenna Ellis – two Trump lawyers who amplified unfounded claims of widespread voter fraud.

The indictment says the defendants "knowingly and willfully joined a conspiracy to unlawfully change the outcome of the election in favour of Trump".

Food costs finally on the slide

THE prices of food staples such as oil and milk are finally "edging down", even though shopping bills remain high, new data suggests.

Research firm Kantar said shoppers paid on average £1.50 for four pints of milk in July, down from £1.69 in March.

The average cost of a litre of sunflower oil, meanwhile, is now £2.19, which is 22p less than in the spring.

It comes as grocery inflation – the rate at which overall food prices rise – remains high but is starting to ease.

Prices increased by 12.7% on an annual basis in the four weeks to 6 August, according to Kantar, which tracks the spending habits of 36,000 UK households.

That is down from 14.9% a month earlier.

Food prices surged last year but there are signs wholesale prices are coming down.

The major supermarkets have also begun to cut the price of basics such as eggs, milk and loo roll as they face pressure to do more to help struggling shoppers.

Record rise in UK wages

WAGES grew at a record annual pace between April and June, according to new figures from the Office for National Statistics.

Regular pay grew by 7.8%, the highest annual growth rate since 2001.

Inflation, which measures the pace at which prices are rising, has eased but remains high at 7.9%.

But Darren Morgan from the ONS said the figures suggested "people's real pay is recovering".

Mr Morgan, the ONS's director of economic statistics, said that basic pay "is growing at its fastest since current records began".

"This means the position on people's real pay is recovering and now looks a bit better."

Brussels rules out migrant deal

EU CAN'T SEND THE BUGGERS BACK!

NO HELP: EU chief von der Leyen

WANTS BOAT DEAL: Sunak

BRUSSELS has ruled out a deal which would allow Channel migrants to be sent back to France.

Official records indicate the refusal came from one of European Commission president Ursula von der Leyen's most trusted aides.

German politician Björn Siebert told senior British officials the bloc will refuse to consider signing a post-Brexit 'returns agreement'.

Mr Siebert, who is Mrs von der Leyen's head of cabinet, delivered the defiant rejection at a face-to-face meeting with the Cabinet Office's National Security Adviser Sir Tim Barrow earlier this year, leaked papers show.

It means Britain will remain unable to return small boat migrants to France for the foreseeable future.

An internal British government memo describes the outcome of the meeting between Sir Tim and Mr Siebert. It says of the EU official: "He stressed that the Commission is not open to a UK-EU readmissions agreement."

Leaked

Both sides did agree to cooperate on other immigration measures, however, including moves to combat trafficking gangs, according to the memo, which was sent to a number of government departments.

Brussels has disputed the version of events set out in the leaked memo. "Mr Siebert never said what it is claimed," a Commission spokesman said.

French ministers insist the European Union's border arrangements can only be decided by Brussels. If Channel migrants cannot be removed to France, the Home Office's options are limited to sending them to their home nation – which in many cases leads to human rights challenges – or to a safe third country such as Rwanda.

However, the Government's asylum deal with Rwanda remains in legal limbo after it was declared unlawful on human rights grounds by the Court of Appeal in June.

Rishi Sunak has repeatedly spoken of his desire to secure closer co-operation with Europe on the Channel crisis.

Mr Sunak, who has vowed to 'stop the boats' as one of his five key pledges to voters, said in June that closer European co-operation on border security 'must be top of the agenda'.

It is understood that UK ministers still hope a returns deal can be agreed. They believe it would be a key factor in deterring crossings.

FOUR MILLION DAYS LOST TO STRIKES

THE number of working days lost since the current period of strike action began has passed four million, new figures show.

Some 4.1 million days are estimated to have been lost in labour disputes in the UK from June 2022 to June 2023 – the highest for any 13-month period since July 1990, when 5.0 million were lost.

Data for last month's strikes by junior doctors, hospital consultants, teachers and rail workers has yet to be compiled.

Strikes this month by doctors, consultants and rail workers will push the cumulative total even higher.

The figures have been published by the Office for National Statistics (ONS) and include provisional numbers for June 2023.

The present spell of industrial action kicked off in June 2022 when members of the Rail, Maritime and Transport union (RMT) staged their first stoppage in a dispute over pay, jobs and conditions.

December 2022 saw the most working days lost in a single month during the current period of strike action, at 829,000.

That is the highest since November 2011, when 997,000 were lost.

She is desperate for man sausage, like all young girlies

POOR little Emily Attack.

The movie and telly beauty has admitted that although millions of men want to jizz on her tits, she struggles with being single and even cries herself to sleep during bouts of loneliness.

The actress and comic has embarked on a string of romances since finding fame in The Inbetweeners, but has failed to find lasting love with any of her former boyfriends.

Her last relationship, with former Big Brother contestant Liam McGough, came to an end in 2022 and Emily, 33, admits a lack of self-esteem is one of her biggest problems whenever she meets a new man.

Confident

Speaking on her podcast, Soaking Up Life With..., she said: 'People think I fly the flag for all the single ladies, but I'm not afraid to admit being on your own is miserable a lot of the time. It's pretty hard. There are times when I go out, feel confident and sexy on my own and I'm independent.'

By GRACE HOOPER
news@sundaysport.co.uk

'But there are times when I cry myself to sleep because it's lonely and awful, and it's OK to admit that, I think.'

When her woes were reported on the website of the hate-filled Daily Mail, several men posted helpful suggestions and ego-boosting words of encouragement.

One said: 'She's a desperate car crash of a woman. However, I'd smash it to bits.'

Another added: 'She's desperate for man sausage, like all young girlies'.

Yet another suggested: 'Just buy a dildo for god's sake.'

Singer Justin's, 26-year-old missus said in an Instagram post that she "is currently watching all of Sex And The City for the first time ever."

The series ran from 1998 to 2004 and followed the Big Apple bonking exploits of four hungry-fannied pals – played by Sarah Jessica Parker, Kristin Davis, Cynthia Nixon and Kim Cattrall.

The show spawned two movies and a follow-up series called And Just Like That... is currently airing.

Naturally, there is a LOT of sex and, with the exception of Sarah Jessica Parker, all got their busters out.

In the comments section of her post, fans and her famous friends reacted to the news.

Sunak's a secret Swiftie

RISHI Sunak refused to confirm whether he is a "Swiftie", following reports he used his holiday to the US last week to see popstar Taylor Swift in concert.

Asked at a hospital in Bucks whether he was a fan of Swift, the Prime Minister said: "I was very lucky to have a really nice holiday over the past week."

"I spent a lot of time with my kids."

"But I'm back at work, focusing on the things that matter and that is about ensuring the NHS has the investment it needs now so it can perform well in the winter."

"It is about ensuring we can make progress on stopping the boats and crucially it is about halving inflation so we can ease the burden on the cost of living."

"Those are the things I'm focused on."

Earlier, Downing Street did not deny reports the PM attended a concert in LA or took part in a workout class set to the Shake It Off singer's music.

Fact me!

VENDING machines kill four times as many people per year than SHARKS.

5,000 extra NHS beds to tackle winter

THE government has announced £250m to provide an extra 5,000 NHS hospital beds in England this winter.

Ministers say 900 new beds should be ready by January, with the rest to follow soon after, boosting capacity.

The increase will mean nearly 100,000 permanent beds on wards and in A&E, available at the busiest time of the year – a 5% rise on current levels.

NHS Providers said the extra capacity was needed "before winter".

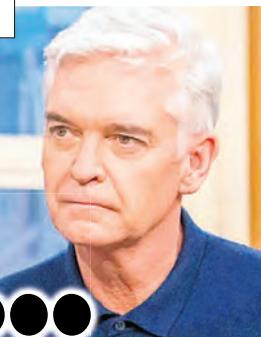

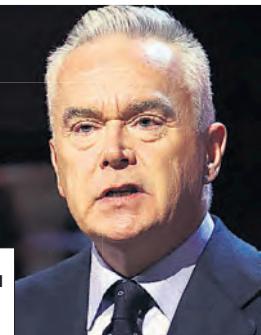

But the extra cash has not stopped the unions bellyaching.

Pat Cullen, from the Royal College of Nursing, griped: "The elephant in the room is who will staff these additional beds? Nursing staff are already spread too thinly over too many patients."

BBC bosses launch new perv probe

WE'RE LOOKING INTO EVERY COMPLAINT, EVERY RUMOUR...

SCANDALS:
Edwards and Brave Phil
Schofield have been in the headlines

BBC bosses have launched a massive new probe to root out sexual misconduct at the Corporation.

It comes after it was reported Beeb chiefs took over four weeks to respond to a whistleblower with a new complaint amid their investigation into Huw Edwards last month.

The former employee reportedly contacted the BBC on July 13 after publicly as the star being investigated following allegations of sexual misconduct.

Passed on to the BBC's Corporate Investigation Team, the whistleblower allegedly followed up two days later – and again on July 31 after receiving no reply.

The BBC only replied to the former employee on August 10, a day after a newspaper took the story to the broadcaster's press office.

Stung that they have been caught off guard by possible new allegations against one of their most high profile presenters, bosses have ordered a "root and branch" review of all complaints.

Disaster

A source said: "After the trouble that ITV got into over Phil Schofield, it seems incredible that any allegations over possible sexual misconduct are not pursued swiftly and thoroughly."

"And while it is the case that Huw Edwards has not been found guilty of anything, you would have thought that anyone bringing fresh claims would be handled sensitively."

"The fear is that there may be more complaints lying on file which could blow up in the BBC's face. As we are fighting for the licence fee, that would be a disaster. This is huge. Every complaint, even every rumour, will be double checked."

A BBC spokesperson said: "We welcome anyone coming forward with information to contribute to our existing fact-finding investigation."

For two decades, Edwards was the face of the BBC flagship News At Ten.

He led the BBC's coverage of important events in recent history including the 2012 London Olympics, the inauguration of Barack Obama and the death of Queen Elizabeth II.

In May this year, a family member of an alleged victim made a complaint about Edwards' behaviour, with details referred to the Corporate Investigations Team.

By July 9, Edwards was suspended from his role.

Only a day later, the alleged victim rubbished the allegations through a lawyer.

Three new claims emerged on July 11 in relation to Edwards' behaviour, before he was finally revealed as the presenter in question by his wife on July 12.

WEIRDO DUMMY THIEF FINALLY GETS NICKED

POLICE investigating a series of incidents in which a man approached people with babies and removed the infants' dummies have made an arrest.

Essex Police said a 23-year-old was detained in Harlow.

The man is being held on suspicion of theft from a person, robbery, and using threatening behaviour to cause alarm or distress. Police appealed for anyone with information to contact them. The arrest came after four incidents around Harlow between February 10 and August 7.

Chief Inspector Paul Austin said: "This is a series of unusual incidents and, as a parent, I understand the level of concern they will cause."

NAKED GIRL WASHED OUT HER FANNY WITH MY GARDEN HOSE

By NELSON SAUVIN
news@sundaysport.co.uk

A FAMILY was left gobsmacked when a woman strolled into their back garden, stripped naked and started showering – using their garden HOSE.

But they were even more stunned when the woman directed the jet of the hose up her MINGE, presumably to rinse out a load of SPUNK!

The woman, 27-year-old Alivia Miranda, was reportedly on drugs during the incident in West Palm Beach – a shabby area in Florida.

Police responded to a call about a "suspicious person" and were told about her showering with a garden hose spout.

Rinsing

It was only later they found out about the fanny rinsing.

Upon arrival, cops saw Miranda throwing her belongings into a pond behind an apartment building.

Randy guard holds up train

A TRAIN was delayed for 30 minutes – after the guard was caught bonking a woman in the driver's cab.

When the shocked driver caught the couple at the station in Tortosa, Spain, he refused to touch the controls in case there was spunk and fanny batter sprayed all over them.

He wanted a full, deep clean before he would put his hands on the levers.

Passengers bound for Barcelona's Estación de Francia had to wait on the platform until a new train was brought from the sidings.

The original engine remained in Tortosa awaiting a thorough despatching so it could be used again.

Rail operator Renfe has opened a case against the conductor who was on the job.

LADY

Miranda

A crowd gathered to watch them take her into custody while she was reportedly screaming.

Once safe in custody, deputies searched her, finding a crack pipe and a lighter.

Cops also discovered

Miranda has two prior convictions for theft.

The alleged loiterer is charged with burglary of a towel, theft, three counts of possession of drug paraphernalia, indecent exposure while remaining completely naked in a public place, resisting an officer and breaching the peace by yelling and throwing her items into a pond.

Taken to jail, her behaviour there cost her another criminal charge. While entering the intake area Miranda became "extremely irate" and was yelling "f that b*".

She also spat on a jail cop.

Now, she faces an additional charge of battery on a law enforcement officer.

Booze-up ended in shooting

A DRUNK man was arrested for pistol-whipping and shooting his friend in both legs, police say.

Thomas Arney, 38, was charged with aggravated battery with a deadly weapon.

The incident took place in De Leon Springs, Florida. The suspect was still on the scene when police officers arrived.

Arney told them the incident started with a drunken argument.

"Arney told deputies he and his friend had been drinking outside all night, then got into an argument that escalated," Volusia Sheriff's Office said in a press release.

The suspect told investigators that his friend had broken the windows of nearby cars before approaching Arney "aggressively."

A witness said that Arney shot the victim once in each leg before eventually hitting him in the head with the weapon.

Arney was taken to the Volusia County Branch Jail.

'Alien' ploy to nick gold in Amazon

ILLEGAL gold miners posed as SPACE ALIENS to terrify natives.

Locals in Alto Nanay, a hamlet of 3,000 people in Peru's northern Amazon Basin, reported seeing "armoured" and "floating" seven-foot aliens wearing dark-coloured hoods flying around since mid-July. Some claimed the creatures were impervious to bullets.

But the local cops says the "aliens" are members of gold mining gangs.

Prosecutors believe the gangs are hoping to invoke fear in locals to keep them away from their illegal gold mines.

They speculated that gangs are using jetpacks to reach tough spots in the dense jungles near the Nanay River to mine for more gold.

"They will be using thrusters that allow people to fly," said one local detective.

RANDY MISS SHAGGED 'CLASS HUNK'

Jealous girls ratted on teacher

JEALOUS girls snitched on a teacher when they found out she was getting shagged bandy-legged by the 'class hunk'.

Now 33-year-old Maria Amanda Heyliger is facing two counts of indecent liberties with a student and two counts of sexual activity with a student.

Allegations

A police report on her arrest claims that the victim was an 18-year-old from the school football team and that the romps, reportedly left the teacher "walking like a gunslinger".

School bosses said Heyliger taught English at Rocky River High School in Charlotte, North Carolina before she resigned on July 28, but could not comment on her arrest.

The student's parent has been made aware of the allegations.

Records showed Heyliger initially joined the school as a substitute in January 2019 before she was promoted to a full-time language arts teacher.

Jail records show she was arrested August 4 before she was released a day later after posting bail.

"There was a hard core of about four girls who were behind telling the authorities what Miss Heyliger done gone been doing."

"Hell, the guy at the middle of this?"

A VET has been called in to perform vasectomies on PEACOCKS that are swarming in a posh neighbourhood.

A growing flock of the colourful fowl has ruffled feathers in the village of Pinecrest, Florida – where the birds' squawks and scratching cars and roofs have annoyed locals.

"Peacocks are bona fide polygamists," Dr Don Harris, the veterinarian hired to perform the procedure said. "We're going to catch one peacock and probably stop seven females from reproducing."

The creatures have roamed Miami's suburbs for decades, due to protections on the birds that have allowed the population to boom.

LOON RIPS HEAD OFF GIRL'S DUCK

A MANIAC tore the head off his girlfriend's DUCK!

Michael Lee Humphries, 49, decapitated the baby bird at the end of an all-day fight that started at a Stevie Nicks concert in Genesee, Michigan, Sheriff Christopher Swanson said.

Humphries then grabbed his girlfriend's face and said, 'I want you to see this'.

"That's domestic violence at an epic level," the sheriff said. "Humphries ripped the head off a domesticated animal for one purpose and one purpose alone – psychological domination and intimidation of a domestic violence victim. That's the only reason.

"He ripped the head off this animal – spinal cord still attached – to send a message to his girlfriend who he had a dispute with," he said of the "very disgusting case".

Humphries – who pleaded guilty to aggravated stalking in 2019 – "fought" officers who came to arrest him.

RITA PEACH,
32D, FROM
HOVE, EAST
SUSSEX

I SHOULDN'T really say this, but here goes... for me, you can't beat the thrill of an affair.

Whether the man is married, or I'm in a relationship, or both... I've got to say I've had the hottest sex ever in those circumstances.

It's the forbidden fruit thing – shagging someone you're not meant to be shagging makes it passionate and intense in the bedroom.

There's often a build-up... the eye contact, the lingering looks, the flirting. Knowing what you're doing is wrong but feeling you can't stop it as the chemistry is so strong.

Then, when it gets going, all the sneaking around adds to the excitement, too. It's never going to be a relationship so it's never going to go stale.

I wouldn't like to be looked at as a homewrecker – I've never got involved with anyone with kids.

And I would not get married myself unless I knew they were the one, and then I could be faithful.

But for now, my priority is in having fun.

Yes I'm being selfish. But I can't bring myself to give up having naughty sexual experiences...

Judge texts work to say he shot wife

A JUDGE texted colleagues that he wouldn't be in work the following day – as he'd just shot his WIFE!

"I just lost it. I just shot my wife. I won't be in tomorrow. I will be in custody. I'm so sorry," Judge Jeffrey Ferguson, 72, told his court clerk and bailiff after gunning down wife Sheryl, 65, inside their Anaheim Hills, California, home.

The judge and his wife started arguing as they dined together at a restaurant and continued once they returned to their home.

Sheryl allegedly said something to the effect of: "Why don't you point a real gun at me?" to her husband, who then whipped out a pistol from his ankle holster and shot her in the chest.

Their adult son reported the shooting to cops, saying his father had been drinking too much.

The judge also called 911 but told the dispatcher he didn't want to talk about the shooting when asked if he was the gunman.

Angry nudists call for clothes ban on beaches

NUDIST have called for clothes to be banned on bare arse beaches.

The Naturist-Nudist Federation of Catalonia sent a letter to officials in the Spanish region asking them to address "the discrimination that nudists face on the beaches of Catalonia".

The group is hoping to protect the decades-long tradition that's linked to about 50 of the beaches in the region.

Seigmon Rovira, the head of the Naturist-Nudist Federation of Catalonia, said that "before, people would arrive at a nude beach and leave or strip down.

"Now they stay and keep their swimsuit on. But what they don't realise is that if there are a lot of them, they end up making us uncomfortable. It's a lack of respect," he continued.

They said I wasn't sexy enough for porn but...

THERE are some people whose judgement is just WAY off.

Like the bloke who said the Titanic was unsinkable and the publisher who turned down JK Rowling's Harry Potter manuscript for starters...

To that list, add the idiot who said that Aiden Ashley was not sexy enough for porn.

Because the 32C brunette now has a top industry award on her mantelpiece for Best Girl/Girl scene after blowing judges away with her fanny-lapping on-screen skills.

And it could have been so different as she struggled to make it in the music business in LA.

Aiden told podcaster Holly Randall: "I didn't have enough money to get from home to the music internship every day, because it was five days a week unpaid. So I went on the internet, trying to find odd jobs..."

"Someone joked 'you should be a porn star' ...and then said 'just kidding, you're not sexy enough to be a porn star'."

Aiden, who admits she's a "very competitive person," rose to the challenge and immediately sent her photo to the top three agents in porn on Friday. "By Saturday I had a meeting, and by Sunday I was shooting for Penthouse."

Positions

Luckily for Arizona-born Aiden, she was paired with porn legend Celeste Starr, who generously showed her the ropes – and how to part sopping wet pussy lips!

Aiden confessed she had NEVER seen any porn before she shot her first scene.

"Celeste showed me all the positions," Aiden recalled.

"Like how to open up to the camera and how to like put your face on the side of a girl's leg so you can lick – but the camera could still see so you're not obstructing everything."

Aiden, now 32, won the XBiz award for best lesbian scene earlier this year – but she's also taken plenty of COCK in her career.

WHAT'S ANNOYING HIM THIS WEEK?

How does a French problem become
OUR problem?

THE Strait of Dover is best known as the narrowest stretch of the English Channel between the UK and France.

It stretches 20 miles from South Foreland, northeast of Dover, to Cap Gris Nez, a cape near to Calais.

It means that the Channel itself is sliced into two "owners" – one called the United Kingdom, the other called France.

The invisible border is obviously in the middle, around the ten mile mark betwixt the two nations.

That means that what happens on our side of the border is our problem – and what happens on theirs is very much THEIR problem.

Except, it seems, when it comes to the illegal migrants clambering onto overloaded rubber dinghies that seem to start conking out just minutes after leaving French shores.

After engines start puttering and belching on the already barely seaworthy craft, water starts pouring in because there's too many people crammed on board, the word goes out: Mayday.

Now, at this point, the lights of France are still behind the people in the boats.

During Saturday morning's tragic incident, six people – who weren't wearing lifejackets – died, and there could well be more lost souls unaccounted for.

So, by the time everyone had caught up with events, rued the loss of life, issued the usual grave warnings about the perils of the sea, what was the overriding reason for the deaths? Who was to blame and/or responsible?

That would me and you. Lord only knows how.

The sinking dinghy was being monitored by not one but TWO French border patrol boats when it started running into difficulties just five miles after leaving France.

Five miles, remember – which is only halfway to the actual halfway mark in the middle of the Channel.

So the French boats immediately leapt into action to save the desperate seafarers, right?

Made sure their vessel was safe enough to return it from whence it came – which was just five miles away, just outside Calais?

Then, extracted information about the smugglers who arranged the whole sorry trip in the first place?

Thrown a load of bad people with wicked human trafficking intentions into the slammer with the noise of a key being tossed away tinkling in the background?

Or... did the following happen instead?

The French boats were actually escorting the dinghy, and others, towards the "middle" of the Channel from where they could wash their hands, shrug a quiet "Sacré bleu" – then return to base for a slap-up l'greasy spoon of frogs legs and snails and horse.

Solved

And to count the £100s of millions the British government has given them to, er, not help us stop the boats.

Charities such as Care4Calais peddle the idea that all this could be solved if British people – or the British government – could just stop being so "mean".

But the British people are not mean. We bend over backwards to help these people.

France lets its immigrants live in shanty-style tent towns.

The former "jungle" of Calais has merely decamped to the streets of Paris – although let's see how many are left when the Olympics moves into the City of Lights next year.

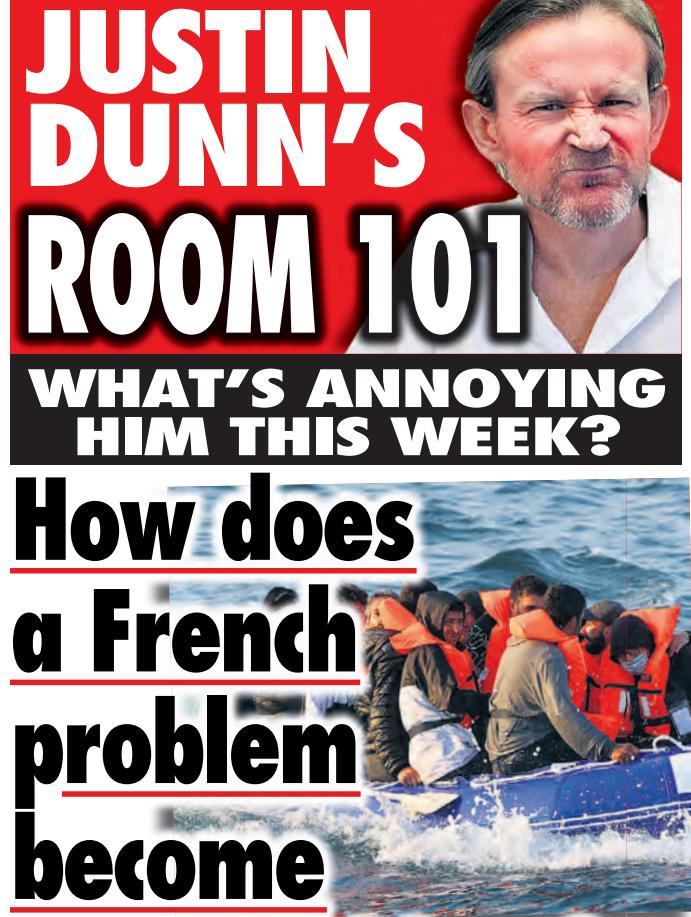

No, Paris's refugee population will be moved on.

And almost certainly in the direction of Calais.

Because by being such a soft touch, as the French see and laugh about, it's all our fault in the first place.

Five miles, remember – which is

Maniac shot ex-wife live on Instagram

A BODYBUILDER live-streamed the brutal murder of his ex-wife on Instagram – before going on a shooting rampage that ended with his suicide.

Nermin Sulejmanovic, 35, filmed at least three videos documenting the violent spree that left three innocent people dead in the northeastern Bosnian town of Gradacac.

The horror started when Sulejmanovic posted a video on Insta, telling his followers that they would see a live execution.

He then turns the camera to his ex-wife.

"Here, watch the murder live now, nice and easy," he says to the camera before callously firing a bullet into a woman's head.

Officials later said 12,000 people watched the slaying live.

He filmed at least two more live videos on the social media app while being pursued by the police, telling his viewers that he killed two others off-camera.

He then committed suicide.

Fact me!

Woman, 40, accused of shagging lad

COPS arrested a 40-year-old woman who is accused of carrying on a sexual relationship with a 15-year-old boy.

Crystal Coleman, 40, of Metairie, Louisiana, was charged with carnal knowledge of a juvenile, indecent behaviour with a juvenile and obstruction of justice.

Coleman is known to the family of the victim. She first began by kissing the teen, says cops.

But the contact soon turned sexual, with the pair meeting at the Kenner lakefront to have sex, detectives said.

The boy's mother noticed a change in his behaviour and began questioning him.

The teen revealed the nature of his sexual contact with Coleman, and his mother called police on July 31, according to authorities.

FORMER STRIPPER'S DREAM SCUPPERED BY PRUDES

A WOMAN has been banned from being a cop – because she's a 'loud and proud' boob-baring sex worker.

Lisa Lewis, an OnlyFans model and escort, moved from New Zealand to Darwin in Australia's Northern Territory after seeing a TV interview last May with police commissioner Michael Murphy.

He appealed for recruits to help deal with the crime explosion in the city of Alice Springs, saying 'Anyone who wants to come and join us, please come and put an application in online.'

Lisa did so, but has now accused the Aussie police of discrimination after she was knocked back because of her 'declared history'.

Her application had advanced to

By NELSON SAUVIN
news@sundaysport.co.uk

the point where recruiters asked for fingerprints, ID documents and her criminal history.

She declared her two brushes with the law – running onto the pitch in a bikini at an All Blacks game in 2006 and a common assault charge for pushing a man who knocked her teeth out in 2012.

Integrity

Police guidelines say 'simple offences' such as common assault will not exclude someone from being recruited if they happened more than 10 years ago.

But Lisa got a call from police officer saying due to her 'unique profession' her application would be sent to the police integrity panel.

He asked if Lisa was currently employed as a sex worker – not illegal in either New Zealand or the Northern Territory – and she said she was.

In a letter to the integrity panel, she said she still worked in the sex industry 'because I need money to live and survive' and that she would quit if she joined the police.

But the panel rejected her application, banning her from reapplying for five years.

Lisa said the police seemed to have a moral objection to how she makes her living.

'I've always been a loud and proud sex worker,' she said. 'It's a legal job, I pay more tax than most people. I've only just moved here and I don't have anything to be embarrassed about.'

Lisa has now applied for a police job in the Aussie state of Victoria.

Dear Sam,

THERE'S a bloke in my local pub who asked me to shag his bird while he watched.

He's 64, I'm 21 and she's 35, with a cracking body. Apparently, he can't get it up any more.

So I went to their place and did the business. She was wearing stockings and suspenders and no knickers.

She took my rock-hard cock deep down her throat and then I boned her on the couch from behind.

I then fed her up the arse while he fingered and licked her out.

But later on, while I was boning her again from behind, he asked me if he could to fk me up the arse.

He'd been lying about being impotent and I told him to get lost.

I've asked for £100 compensation. Do you think I'm right?

TD, south Yorkshire

Sam says...

NO. Just forget about it – you shagged his bird, so you're quits now.

Dear Sam,

AFTER 10 years of marriage I've become depressed because my husband seems to have lost interest in sex with me.

Until the past three months we'd always enjoyed a hectic and adventurous sex life.

In fact, only 12 weeks ago we had a sensational threesome. We'd been in the pub and this guy came back to our place.

My hubby put on a porn DVD in the front room and we all ended up going upstairs together.

My guy shagged me first as his mate played with my 36Ds and tweaked my nipples and I pumped his cock.

Then he rolled off and I got on all fours as his pal took me from behind. Then as we lay back exhausted side by side, I wanked them both off in unison.

But this is the last sex session me and my husband have had and I can't help wondering why.

IS, Devon

Sam says...

PERHAPS your hubby thought you enjoyed his mate's cock too much. Change his mind for him.

I enjoy extra meat with my takeaway

Dear Sam,

I'M a 35-year-old divorcee bringing up three young children.

One night I'd put the kids to bed and ordered a Chinese takeaway. Not long after the bell rang and I was confronted by a stunning young bloke holding my meal.

It was a cold night and he was shivering, so I invited him into the kitchen for a cuppa.

I suddenly noticed that he was staring at me and I asked what was wrong.

He told me I was beautiful. Naturally I was chuffed and said: "You should see me first thing in the morning."

I got a shock when he answered: "I wish I could."

Then he lifted me on the table and tore off my blouse, skirt and thong.

He slipped his rock-hard penis into my wet pussy and it wasn't long before we both had an orgasm at the same time.

Now I find myself ringing the takeaway five nights a week, just so I can have sex with him.

I really can't afford it. What should I do?

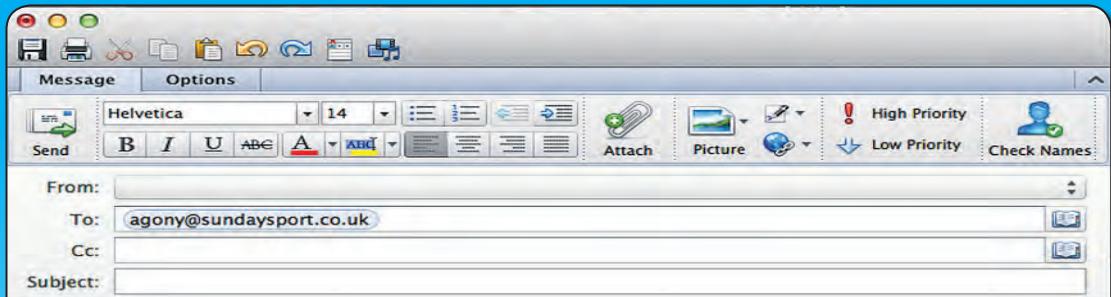

MR, east London

Sam says...

ASK him out on a date.

AGONY IS BROUGHT TO YOU IN ASSOCIATION

WELCOME to the World famous Sport Agony page! No other newspaper's agony aunts can offer the level of advice – or experience – than our own Agony Angels! This week SAM TYE has been reading through your letters. And here's her advice for you...

I'm Black Widow's sex slave – to keep my job!

Dear Sam,

I'M an IT worker and while I was updating the firm's internal e-mail system I decided to take the opportunity to look up some web porn.

I found a snap of some stud taking a fit blonde from behind. For some reason I thought it would be a laugh to superimpose my head on the stud's body and the head of one of my fit colleagues.

It looked realistic, so I e-mailed the image to some of my mates.

The only problem was that a fault in my new system meant that everyone in the office received a copy.

Furious

Most of the lads and a couple of the women thought it was great fun, but my fit colleague was furious and complained to our female boss.

She's a 40-year-old divorcee, blonde and big-titted, but unfortunately with a face like a horse's arse.

Her nickname in the office is the Black Widow. That's because once she shags any bloke who works here, he's never seen again.

Anyway, she told me to see her in her office when everyone had gone home and I obviously feared the worst.

When I got there she gave me a right bollocking and explained to me that what I had done was serious and a sackable offence.

But then she said that if I shagged her, she would let me off with just a warning.

Seeing a way out of losing my job, I obliged. I took off my clothes and helped her out of hers, and I was surprised at how quickly I stiffened at the sight of the black stockings she was wearing.

As I bent her over the desk and slid easily into her from behind I got a great view of her firm arse and reached round for a grope of her lovely 36DD tits.

As I was pounding away, I glanced up and saw her face reflected in the office window.

There was no getting away from the fact she had an ugly mug, albeit contorted into an amazing expression of ecstasy.

This put me off slightly and it took a real effort to complete the job. But I did, and she seemed to enjoy it.

Now she says she wants regular sex or she'll sack me. I'm prepared to do this, but I'm worried that I'll be the next victim of the Black Widow.

What do you think?

AP, Norfolk

Sam says...

KEEP the Black Widow satisfied so she can't add you to her list of missing men.

Dear Sam,

I HAVE a fear of shagging in the open air. How can I discourage birds from wanting to shag me outdoors?

TF, Somerset

Sam says...

GET a grip man. What could be better than fresh fanny in the fresh air?

Dear Sam,

MY girlfriend was away at her folks' place last weekend, so I popped in to the boozier on the Sunday afternoon.

I sat quietly with my paper and a pint and then the strangest thing happened.

A really fit girl, around 19 with long blonde hair and a slim physique, brought her drink over and asked what I was reading.

We had a few drinks and a nice chat and she later suggested we have a few more drinks elsewhere.

We set off in a taxi but she was desperate for the loo and, as we were passing my place, we paid off the driver and nipped into mine.

I was stunned when she grabbed me in the hall and stuck her tongue down my throat, sending my old man into orbit.

Then she slipped off her jeans and lay back on the carpet, revealing her golden mound just waiting to be eaten.

We screwed all evening and her athletic body got into positions I'd never dreamed of.

She was an expert at oral and loved licking and sucking on my balls.

What worries me is that I might bump into her when I'm out with my girlfriend.

FC, Lancs

I'm hooked on back-door action

Dear Sam,

I THINK I'm an anal sex nymphomaniac. I'm 25 with shoulder-length curly black hair, 36DD boobs and an all-over tan.

It started when I caught my next door neighbour son masturbating as he watched me sunbathe in the garden.

I was going to tell his parents but I started getting turned on by his wanking.

So I'd oil up my body and go in the garden in my skimpiest pink bikini.

I was getting so hot as he started to whip one off that I went round and asked him to oil up my back.

He's 19 and we were soon upstairs in my house with him throwing all he had into nail me doggy-style.

Pumping

Then he slipped out of my pussy and asked if he could put his cock up my arse.

I said yes and soon found myself starting to really enjoy the feeling of him pumping away there.

He soon exploded and that is when I orgasmed. I'd never had anal before and I was hooked.

He's been boasting about it to his mates and he's suggested an anal gang-bang.

I'm not sure I would go that far, however, as there may be risks involved.

What do you think?

HS, west Midlands

Sam says...

YES, there would be risks with a gang-bang – just stick with your next-door neighbour.

HOT 'N' HORNY

LOVELY Leonora Heninghan was going to holiday in the UK this year – but she changed her mind when the black clouds rolled in.

She explained: "We've had a few good summers and I thought, what with all this global warming we're supposed to be having, that this was the new normal.

"But we've had the old normal this year – wet and chilly."

Leonora, who has 34D boobs and is from Maidstone in Kent said: "I don't care if there are heatwaves abroad. I just want heat.

"I'm not a drizzle kind of girl – I'm going to try and find a last minute deal if I can.

"Bet I'll have to pay through the nose!"

INJURY: Tyrone Mings

Knee keeps Mings out for months

ASTON Villa and England defender Tyrone Mings is facing a long spell on the sidelines as he is set to undergo an operation on a "significant knee injury".

Mings was carried off on a stretcher in some distress in the first half of Villa's season-opening 5-1 defeat at Newcastle after a seemingly innocuous tangle of legs with striker Alexander Isak.

Villa have not put a timescale on Mings' recovery but expect a "lengthy rehabilitation", with his setback coming days after the club lost Emiliano Buendia to a knee ligament injury for up to eight months.

The club said: "Tyrone Mings has sustained a significant knee injury.

"The England international was stretchered off from the field after damaging his knee during the first half of Villa's match at Newcastle United on Saturday.

"The defender has undergone scans and will unfortunately require surgery ahead of a lengthy rehabilitation process."

In the wake of the confirmation, Mings took to social media to signal his determination to return even better from his latest setback.

He tweeted: "I don't even know where to start but to say thank you for all of your messages of support, Villa fans.

"From the day I came here on loan, I've given everything on the pitch. I'll now give everything off the pitch to come back even better whilst supporting the team.

"To the players, fans & staff connected to @NUFC, I also want to say thank you. The applause, the messages & the medical support I received on the day was really appreciated."

Newcastle posted on Twitter in response to Villa's update: "Wishing you a speedy recovery, @TyroneMings".

Magpies boss Eddie Howe signed Mings for Bournemouth in 2015 only to lose the centre-back for 15 months when he suffered an anterior cruciate ligament on his Cherries debut.

Howe said at the weekend: "I have to say he faced that period out with incredible courage and resilience, and what he's done since that moment, to go on and play for his country and be outstanding in the Premier League, is testament to that resilience."

IT'S ALL KICKING OFF FOR THE LIONESSES

WORLD!

Walsh focused on England over the Cup fever that has gripped Australia

ENGLAND midfielder Keira Walsh insists the Lionesses are not thinking about the Australian hearts they would break if they eliminate the World Cup co-hosts in Wednesday's Sydney semi-final.

Australia reached the final four for the first time after beating France in a thrilling penalty shootout, while this will be England's third crack at advancing to the final of the global showpiece – a feat they have yet to accomplish.

The fervour with which the Australians have embraced their side has grown at a frenetic pace, culminating with thousands gathering in fan parks across the country to watch the quarter-final and millions more breaking viewing records on TV.

Walsh said: "Whatever game I play, I want to win. It doesn't matter who you are playing against. For us, I wouldn't say we are thinking about spoiling the party.

"I think it is just another game and a massive game at that. We are just fully focused on trying to reach a World Cup final, regardless of who we are playing.

"I think obviously with the support from Australia it is going to be a little bit different for them in that sense.

"I think we have seen that the (England) girls are ready to fight.

"Obviously, when the whistle ends it is a different story, but I think in the game the girls are very aware of what the game is going to be like, what the stadium is going to be like. I think, for us, we are more than ready for it."

Australia are only the second country to reach the semi-finals of a World Cup as host nation, following the United States who won the 1999 final at Pasadena's Rose Bowl and were also semi-finalists in 2003.

Sydney's Stadium Australia, where England beat Colombia in the last eight, seats over 75,000 fans, the majority of whom are expected to support the hosts.

Mood

In that sense, the Lionesses' 2-1 comeback victory over Colombia to reach this stage served as an excellent dress rehearsal, their fans another sea of raucous yellow who equally viewed England as public enemy number one.

Walsh, who in just over a year has secured both the Euro 2022 trophy with England and the Champions League title with Barcelona, said dampening the mood with a goal or two could help the Lionesses take control of the narrative.

She said: "(The crowd) was massive for us at the Euros, especially in the final."

"There are those moments where the opposition could score and it shifts momentum sometimes when you're playing, it gives you an extra push when you know the crowd is behind you."

"But also when you can quieten the crowd it is a very nice feeling. I think for us trying to take the momentum out of the game is going to be important."

"There are positives and negatives for both. We have experienced both sides."

Walsh missed England's third group-stage encounter against China after sustaining a knee injury

ESSES ON WEDNESDAY MORNING

RARING TO GO:
Keira Walsh

in the first half of their 1-0 victory over Denmark.

At the time it was feared the issue could be tournament-ending.

It would have been like the anterior cruciate ligament injuries that prevented Euro 2022 captain Leah Williamson and Golden Boot winner Beth Mead from joining Sarina Wiegman's World Cup squad.

Boost

It turned out not to be as serious as initially suspected, and the 26-year-old returned to play 120 minutes of England's last-16 victory over Nigeria, which the Lionesses ultimately won 4-2 on penalties.

Williamson has now made the trip to Australia and was in the stands for the Lionesses' Colombia victory. "It's a massive boost for the team," Walsh added.

"To see her supporting us on the opposite side of the world, it's not an easy flight."

"I think it kind of shows what she feels about this team. The first time I saw her she was actually standing outside my hotel room waving."

"She didn't want to distract us on game day, so she kind of just stood outside and waved from there."

"To get the win and celebrate with her afterwards, I mean I imagine it's not easy for her to watch those games because she would want to be playing in them, so I think for us we really appreciate her support."

"I think it shows what a good character and what type of person she is that she's able to do that for us."

Kepa heads to Madrid on season loan

CHELSEA goalkeeper Kepa Arrizabalaga has completed a season-long loan move to Real Madrid. The 28-year-old Spain international, who joined the Blues in a £71.6million switch from Athletic Bilbao in August 2018, is contracted at the Bernabeu until June next year.

Real needed a new keeper after Thibaut Courtois was ruled out for the majority of the season with an ACL injury.

A statement on Real's official website said: "Real Madrid CF and Chelsea FC have agreed on the loan of the player Kepa Arrizabalaga, who is linked to the club this season, until June 30, 2024."

"In his five seasons at Chelsea, he has won one Champions League, one Club World Cup, one European Super Cup and one Europa League."

"This year, he has received the award for the best save in the Premier League for the 2022-2023 season."

"Kepa is an international with the Spanish team, with which he has been proclaimed champion of the 2023 Nations League. With Spain, he also won the U19 European Championship in 2012."

Kepa will be formally presented as a Real Madrid player on Tuesday afternoon.

His return to Spain follows the arrival of 25-year-old compatriot Robert Sanchez at Stamford Bridge.

Sanchez made a £25million switch from Brighton earlier this month and started Sunday's 1-1 home draw with Liverpool as youngster Lucas Bergstrom provided the back-up on the bench.

Kepa has 163 Chelsea appearances under his belt and was handed the captaincy last season.

However, he has become surplus to requirements under new boss Mauricio Pochettino and will now work for a season under former Chelsea head coach Carlo Ancelotti.

A statement on the club's official website said: "Chelsea goalkeeper Kepa Arrizabalaga has completed a season-long loan move to LaLiga side Real Madrid."

"The club wish him well for the season ahead in Madrid, where he will work with former Chelsea head coach Carlo Ancelotti."

Getting Kepa off the wage bill will help the Blues afford new British record signing Moises Caicedo, 21.

He finally signed from Brighton for an initial £100m, rising to £115m after add-ons.

The midfielder has signed an eight-year contract at Stamford Bridge. He is expected to be joined by Southampton teenager Romeo Lavia for £50m.

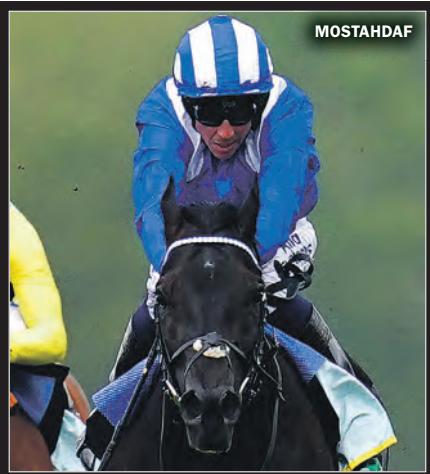

Both players were also wanted by Liverpool.

Caicedo said: "I close an unforgettable chapter in my life. Since my first steps in Europe, you showered me with love and support."

"In every match, in every minute on the pitch, I felt your cheers and energy."

"Thank you for everything, Brighton! We'll see you on the journey."

Caicedo is set to make his debut at West Ham on Saturday.

Frankie makes Most of his last Juddmonte bid

FRANKIE Dettori expects Mostahdraf to offer up a stern test for Paddington when the duo clash in the Juddmonte International Stakes at York on Wednesday week.

The weighing-room legend will deputise for the suspended Jim Crowley aboard Mostahdraf on the Knavesmire, and is relishing the opportunity for a final success in the 10-furlong highlight ahead of his retirement at the end of the year.

Mostahdraf took his form to a new level with a four-length triumph in the Prince of Wales's Stakes at Royal Ascot and Dettori has been acquainting himself with the son of Frankel at John and Thady Gosden's yard.

He said: "I rode him the other morning and he is a beautiful specimen of a horse. He's strong and has got a lovely stride. He doesn't overdo himself in the mornings, but we know exactly what he can do and I'm excited."

"What he did in the Prince of Wales's, I was taken, so he's going to be there with every chance."

Mostahdraf will provide a fresh challenge for the Aidan O'Brien-trained Paddington, who has emerged as this year's leading three-year-old.

The Siyouni colt has won each of his six starts this term, graduating from a handicap victory to Listed success before reaching new heights in claiming the Irish 2,000 Guineas, St James's Palace, Eclipse and Sussex Stakes.

Having won on ground from heavy to good and shown his stamina for 10 furlongs and speed for a mile, Paddington seemingly has few chinks in his armour and Dettori is well acquainted having finished behind him a couple of times.

However, he is backing Mostahdraf to put up a bold challenge, with his mount an 11-4 chance, while Paddington is the 11-10 favourite.

Dettori said: "He's a good horse. The Sussex was a non-event, but Paddington is still good – he put Chaldean to bed in the St James's Palace, when I was second, in good style and he beat Emily (Upjohn), so he is the best three-year-old around at the moment.

EXCITED: Dettori

"But I think this is his test now, he's taking on a four-length winner of the Prince of Wales's. It's going to be a different race to what he's faced, but I have no doubt he is a good horse because it looks like he only does what he has to do and he looks like he's still got something in the locker."

"We will give him a race and see what happens."

Meanwhile, defending champion Jumby is one of 13 confirmed for the Hungerford Stakes at Newbury on Saturday.

Eve Johnson Houghton's five-year-old ran on strongly to down Dubai Poet in the Group Two contest 12 months ago and will return to the Berkshire track in good order following some pleasing efforts of late.

Although a tilt at Group One level for the Lockinge Stakes was ultimately a step too far, he returned to winning ways in the John of Gaunt at Haydock before again hitting the frame when second to Audience in the Criterion.

"He's in great form, he just wants firm ground which seems to be missing at the moment," said Johnson Houghton.

"Hopefully there is no more rain forecast."

LOVELY PER CAN SCORE IN WALES

PER Contra looked a smart prospect first time up and should further confirm that impression in the Follow @theraces On Twitter EBF Restricted Novice Stakes at Ffos Las.

Sent off the events favourite on his debut at Chepstow following strong market support, Ollie Sangster's colt was slowly away and racing in rear for much of the way before challenging widest of all.

He showed he is a work in progress with the way he drifted left all the way across the track, but there was no doubt his superiority as he came home under just hands and heels from Jamie Spencer.

And despite that wayward passage he was still three and a quarter lengths too good for Loaded Quiver, who paid the winner a nice complement when winning on this third start.

Sangster mentioned the Champagne Stakes at Doncaster as a possible target in the immediate aftermath, but is clearly keen to take in another low-level opportunity on the way to the Leger meeting.

By MIKE FRANCIS

Salisbury's Irish Stallion Farms EBF Stonehenge Stakes shapes as a midweek cracker, with Arabian Crown and Arabic Legend doing battle with one or two other nice ones.

Preference is for the Andrew Balding-trained Arabic Legend, having got off the mark first time up at Newmarket when sent off at a rather generous looking 17-2.

He had been due to begin at Doncaster in June, where he was well backed for a seven-furlong novice but got upset at the start and was withdrawn.

So it was surprising he was the price he was at HQ, where he moved like the winner for much of the early journey before showing signs of inexperience when initially asked for his effort, hanging to his left.

He was really strong at the line, however, under only minimal encouragement from Rob Hornby and while the form has turned out to be nothing to write home about, this beautifully-bred son of Dubawi could be a smart one.

The other Listed race on the card at the Wiltshire track is the British EBF 40th Anniversary Upavon Fillies' Stakes, in which Running Lion will be expected to return to winning ways.

Such a good winner of the Pretty Polly Stakes at the Guineas meeting, connections opted to go for the Oaks only to see it all go wrong when Oisin Murphy could only look on in frustration as she was withdrawn after getting upset in the stalls.

Wide

She went to France after that for the Prix de Diane, but that also did not go to plan as she never really looked herself from a wide draw.

Le Mans should take the beating for Richard Hannon and Ryan Moore in the Unibet/Breeders' Backing Racing EBF Fillies' Novice Stakes at Kempton.

A 470,000 guineas half-sister to the stable's former top two-year-old Lusail, she did it nicely when getting up to win at Newmarket at the end of June, with the form boosted since by the runner-up.

At Yarmouth, keep an eye on what the market says about Saeed bin Suroor's newcomer Arabic Art in the British Stallion Studs EBF Maiden Stakes.

Leopards can maul big boys in league

LAM BACKS LEIGH TO REPEAT CUP HEROICS BY MAKING GRAND FINAL

HERO: Lam

ADRIAN Lam is convinced the sky is the limit for Leigh's leopard-skin-clad heroes after he watched his son Lachlan kick the golden-point decider to sink Hull KR and end their 52-year-old wait for a Challenge Cup win at Wembley.

Leigh's 17-16 win sustained an astonishing success story for a club whose announcement last October of a rebrand was met with scorn and the expectation of a top-flight return spotted with struggle.

With the world's oldest rugby trophy in the cabinet and a top-four place in Super League seemingly secure, the Leopards head coach has warned the game had better start getting used to its garish newcomers.

"I had a conversation with (owner) Derek (Beaumont) about it (the rebrand) and how people were going to take it, and it's snowballed to a point where I was having a coffee this morning and saw men wearing leopard-skin tops and shirts," recalled Lam.

"It helps because we're winning but it's just gone viral across the whole town and maybe across the UK. It's caught on and I think it can go to so many different levels – where does it end?"

Lachlan Lam held his nerve to settle an enthralling if error-strewn affair in the fourth minute of the extra period, after both team-mate Gareth O'Brien and Rovers' Brad Schneider missed opportunities to seal the victory.

Steered by the influence of Lam and the constant prompting of Edwin Ipape, Leigh were the better team for long periods and would have been aggrieved to finish the first period only two points to the good as Rovers somehow clung on.

Jez Litten's converted try cancelled out Ben Reynolds' early penalty before Lam burst clear to put Leigh in front.

Elliot Minchella's yellow card for going high on Reynolds on the half-hour made Rovers' task harder but they not only survived, but reduced the deficit through a Schneider penalty.

Schneider levelled at the start of the second half and valiant Rovers defence held Leigh at bay until Mikey Lewis coughed up an error too far on 65 minutes, Leigh capitalising when Tom Brisco – the scourge of Rovers in their last final appearance in 2015 when he scored five tries in a 50-0 win for Leeds – touched down.

History

Matt Parcell gave his side hope on the hooter after the video referee took more than five minutes to deem Kane Linnett had not knocked on a crash ball before the Rovers hooker squeezed over, but Schneider's conversion to drag the game into the extra period for the first time in the tournament's history proved in vain.

No sooner had Lam's kick soared between the posts, confirmation of the Leopards' victory was greeted by a leopard-suited Beaumont leading a victory charge and Lam being engulfed by his team-mates, many of whom had faced uncertain futures before committing to the owner's unlikely revolution.

"Some of the players we've recruited over the last 18 months were down and out in some areas and I'm just so grateful for what they've done," added Adrian Lam.

"Edwin Ipape wasn't in a team anywhere, no-one knew who Kai O'Donnell was, Josh Charnley couldn't get in the Warrington team. The way that group has got together has been incredible. This is a magic moment for the club but we feel there is so much more to come."

While few would dare mock Leigh's pretensions to repeat the feat and go all the way to the season-ending Grand Final, Rovers face the difficult task of recovering and embarking on a run that will secure their own place in the end-of-season play-offs.

Such an eventuality would provide hope of a fitting send-off for captain Shaun Kenny-Dowall, whose hopes of marking his final season as a player by becoming the first KR player to lift the Challenge Cup since 1980 were cruelly dashed.

The veteran New Zealander had been the prime instigator in keeping his side's feet on the ground after their golden point semi-final win over Wigan, and he will spend this week imparting a message of a different kind ahead of their Super League resumption at St Helens next weekend.

"I really feel for our fans who showed up in numbers like they always do," said Kenny-Dowall. "But we will dust ourselves off and get back to what we always do, and that is the messaging for this week."

"We will take the learnings as a group and our full focus is on what is ahead. We are sitting nicely and we know if we rally round and put our full energy into the next few games, we will give ourselves the best chance to be playing in another game like that at the end of the year."

Lachlan Lam admits he was surprised to score his first ever drop goal in such a big game.

He said: "It was my first pro field goal, and it felt like I had a lot of time when I kicked it. I dropped it a little bit on the angle but halfway towards the posts I knew it was going over. It happened really quickly. I went to celebrate and all of a sudden I was on my back."

BUSINESS AS USUAL FOR VAR CLO ONANA IN A SPOT OF BOther!

Keeper, boss and ref only people on planet who thought it wasn't a pen

MAN United goalkeeper Andre Onana believes referee Simon Hooper and VAR were right not to award Wolves a last-gasp penalty in their Premier League clash at Old Trafford.

United opened their league account for the season in unconvincing fashion as Raphael Varane's header 14 minutes from time was enough to earn a 1-0 victory that was barely deserved.

Indeed, it looked like Wolves might get the chance to equalise from the penalty spot at the death when debutant Onana appeared to clatter into Sasa Kalajdzic, but the goalkeeper got away with it.

Wolves boss Gary O'Neil said Onana tried "to take the centre-forward's head off" and claimed Premier League referees' boss Jon Moss apologised to him for the decision after the match. But asked if it was a penalty, Onana said: "No, goalkeepers make decisions, sometimes you are right, sometimes you are not."

"I made a decision and I am responsible for everything. For me it was contact between two big guys and nothing happened. But for us, the most important thing was to win and I am happy for the victory.

"Of course I was confident (it would not be given)."

Adapting

Onana made his Premier League debut following his summer move from Inter Milan.

The Cameroonian international, who worked with Erik Ten Hag at Ajax, has big boots to fill following on from David De Gea, and his style differs greatly from the Spaniard as he likes the ball at his feet.

But he insists it is a case of him adapting to his new surroundings rather than the United defence changing their game.

"Listen, I think I'm playing with some of the best defenders in the world because playing for United is not something easy," he said.

"I think I'm the one who has to adapt because United is a very big club and I'm proud to be able to perform here and proud to play alongside these defenders and if something has to change, I think we will do it."

"At the moment everything is going right and we just have to continue working like this and I think it will be OK by the end of the season."

United boss Erik ten Hag tried to play down the penalty incident, but he was largely alone in thinking the officials got the decision right.

"When VAR looked at it and decided not to give it of course we are pleased," the Dutchman said. "It's about the referee and the VAR. I think the two players come together and Andre didn't interfere with the action from them because first was the touch on the ball and then came Andre."

But Ten Hag was more balanced when summing up United's troubles during the match.

"It was a tough game," he said. "I think we can do much better on the ball."

"We proved that last season and also in pre-season but the pre-season is not the season and when the league starts opponents are more aggressive."

"Our decision-making could have been better and were not aggressive enough from that point of view, but there are a lot of positives to take. We fought for our lives and we survived with three points so well done."

Few will have seen a performance like this coming from Wolves, whose plans for the season were thrown into disarray last week when boss

United celebrate
Varane's goal

O'Neil, who was sacked at Bournemouth after keeping them in the English top flight last season, will have been thrilled at what he saw as his new side put in a slick counter-attacking display that had United on the run for the majority of the game.

But old failings returned as they could not score with any of the 23 shots they had, which will have brought back memories from last season, where they registered just 31 times.

"I think we keep doing more like today," O'Neil said. "My initial thoughts around them not scoring enough goals last year was, we need to arrive in good areas, with good numbers more."

"We have enough talent in the group so if we arrive in numbers, the boys will score goals, no doubt."

"I don't think today was a reoccurrence of the pattern you saw last year. I think if the lads play that game 100 times, they score in 99 of them."

"Keep arriving in those areas, keep working with the players to improve understanding and how many times we arrive and the lads will score some goals."

On the penalty, O'Neil said: "Having just spoken to Jon Moss, fair enough he came straight out and said it was a blatant penalty and it should have been given."

"I've spent a lot of my day with him trying to understand the new guidelines and how to not get myself booked which I've failed in, but fair play to Jon in coming out."

"He said it was clear and obvious and he can't believe the on-field referee didn't give it and he can't believe VAR didn't intervene. It's probably made me feel worse to be honest because once you know you're right you feel worse about leaving with nothing."

BRING ON HOOPS SAYS KILLIE BOSS

KILMARNOCK manager Derek McInnes says his players should be confident for their cup clash with Celtic following an impressive start to the season.

Killie are unbeaten in six matches and followed up their opening Premiership win over Rangers with a goalless draw against Hearts at Tynecastle.

They now face the treble winners at Rugby Park on Sunday in the Viaplay Cup second round.

McInnes said: "I am confident, I have said that to the players.

"Celtic have a fantastic cup record and I was disappointed and made my opinion heard when we won our group and drew them. It wasn't the tie we wanted but right now it feels like a good tie for us.

"Rugby Park will be jam-packed, it will be a brilliant atmosphere, and I think the players should go into the game with a lot of confidence."

WHAT A VARCE!

Refs dropped after penalty cock-up

CALAMITY ref Simon Hooper and both VARs from Wolves' 1-0 defeat at Man United on Monday night have been stood down from the next set of Premier League fixtures.

Wolves head coach Gary O'Neil revealed he had received an apology from elite referees' officer

By JOHN ANTHONY

Jon Moss after his side were denied a "blatant" stoppage-time penalty when United goalie Andre Onana clattered into Sasa Kalajdzic.

Hooper did not react to the incident, and VAR Michael Salisbury deemed there was no foul. Head of the Match Officials Howard Webb, has also been in touch with Wolves after the match to apologise.

Hooper, VAR Salisbury and assistant VAR Richard West have all not been selected this weekend.

O'Neil said he thought Onana was trying to "take Kalajdzic's head off".

The new Wolves head coach added: "Moss said it was clear and obvious and can't believe the on-field referee didn't give it."
